

The Seven Year Story

this was us before we heard about our strategy and authority! sitting in the back seat trying to direct our lives from our minds and freaking out! no peace. no satisfaction. no success. no awe.

we hear about our strategy and start experimenting ... it's not easy and the mind still wants to tell the driver where to go!

after awhile - there is this acceptance and trust and surrender to our inner authority - and we can relax in the back seat and be a good passenger and look out the windows.

after the seven year cleaning out process you can really start enjoying the ride. not only has the passenger stopped telling the driver where to go - it doesn't even WANT to interfere with ride! it is perfect as it is!
